Pearlshipping Randomness!

Hey hey hey guys shiny here! Welcome to this new series. Hopefully I can update this and 50 word randomness weekly. Anyway here is the fic!

Dawn sat next to the hospital bed of her recovering boyfriend. She had been there for weeks as well as Brock. as Ash entered a coma when a Pokemon move missed and hit him. He woke up, finally his eyes opened. He looked around and said to Brock,

"Who are you?"

Dawn's eyes teared up. The thought of her boyfriend losing his memory was unbearable. The Raven haired male looked at the yellow rodent who was also waiting for him to recuperate.

"Pika pika!"

The rodent attempted to jump on his shoulder but he caught him and put him down.

"I'm sorry, but I don't recall having any Pokemon."

Dawn attempted to hold her tears in. She asked,

"Hey Ash," she sniffled,

"Remember this?"

She out her hand up referencing a high five.

"D-Dawn?"

Dawn immediately stopped crying. She didn't think he would remember her. He somehow remembered her over one of his closest friends and the Pokemon he was had shared a special bond with. But she realized the bond they shared was unique, one of a kind even.

"I'm sorry..." , Ash said suddenly, speaking to everyone in the room.

" But I don't know anyone here besides Dawn. I don't know how I ended up here. But I know with Dawn by my side, I'll remember everything!"

This made everyone smile. Though the future seemed blank for Ash, his determination to remember gave everyone a sliver of hope. But the question still loomed, what are the chances of that happening? The doctor still hadn't arrived.

Dawn had fallen asleep with Ash on the hospital bed, when the doctor suddenly walked in.

"I'm afraid I have some bad news."

Dawn's heart sank. She had dreaded this moment.

"Ash must have surgery on his brain. His hippocampus was severely damaged by the psychic attack. That is the part of the brain concerned with long term attack is normally non lethal to Pokemon, but to humans,it can be very lethal. If the surgery goes like normal, he should be able to live. But figments of his memory will be impaired. If he goes wrong.." , he paused.

"It can result in death."

Dawn choked back a sob and asked

"When will t-this surgery happen?"

"In 3 days, please feel free to spend time with him. It's something I would advise."

What will happen to Ash? Please tell me wether or not to make this a mini series of drabbles! Thanks for reading and shiny out!
